Fuel Control Bill Barely Passes in State Legislature

COLUMBUS, Sept 13—The state legislature has passed Governor Davis' fair price coal bill as an emergency measure effective immediately

The bill passed the senate early this morning by a vote of 28 to3 after going through the house with a vote of 86 to 12

In the house the emergency clause was adopted by a vote of 86 to 11 or one more vote than was required The vote on the emergency clause in the senate was 26 to 6 Senator Reynolds Cleveland democrat casting the vote necessary to insure its adoption

Opposed Measure

Legislators who voted both against the bill and the emergency clause are Senators Endley Richland county Gifford Lucas King Perry Representatives Bond Belmont Gorrell Carroll, Hines Tuscarawas Hummon Putnam Matthews Montgomery Matthews Scioto Robinson Lawrence Schelhorn Butler Velgel Henry

Those opposing the emergency clause included Senators Bender Cuyahoga Burke Lorain Davis Butler Butterworth Hamilton and Weygandt Cuyahoga Senator Lefever Athens did not vote Representative Burns Washington Hitch Athens and Randolph Perry also voted against the bill

The new law gives Governor Davis power to use or withhold action as he sees fit Appropriations totalling $14?0 for use of the fuel administrator in covering general expenses also were made by the state legislature

The act provides for a fine of not less than $ 00 nor more than $[illegible] or imprisonment in the penitentiary from one to three years or both to be applied to any person who sells coal in excess to a price set by the fuel administrator

Suggests [illegible]ment

John Moo[re] [Colum]bus president of the Ohio Federation of Labor and representing the mine workers of the state declared that the miners union voiced no opposition to the bill He suggested however an amendment calling for equal distribution of cars in order that all mines receive equal work

Speaking for the Federation of Labor however President Moore emphatically protested against the fair price act He declared that the federation was against the fixing of a price on any commodity because such action is just one step removed from fixing wages and the next step will be dictation as to the number of days a man shall work

The whole thing' he asserted 'tends to kill collective bargaining the one thing that unions have always fought for '

LODGE WINS IN BAY STATE VOTE

Townsend, of Michigan, and Poindexter of Washington, Also Triumph at Polls

WASHINGTON, Sept 13—Both republicans and democrats in the national capital professed today to be well satisfied with the results of Tuesday s primaries in seven states

The republicans drew considerable comfort from the fact that the three regular republican senators up for renomination apparently have come through with safe pluralities Senator Henry Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts the majority leader Senator Charles E Townsend of Michigan the good roads champion in the senate and Senator Miles Poindexter, of Washington chairman of the senate naval affairs committee

Senator Lodge s victory was hailed as impressive Both public and private dispatches reaching Washington indicated Lodges victory will be on a ratio of about 3 to 1

Some republicans had been worried over Senator Poindexter s chances but these were dissipated during the forenoon when Poindexter telegraphed his colleagues in the senate that he had been renominated by a plurality of from 0 000 to 25 000 in a field of six candidates

In the Michigan primary Senator Townsend s victory was less impressive and it was here that the democrats professed to find cause for genuine rejoicing Senator Townsend was the champion of Senator Newberry in the senate and was severely attacked for this by his republican opponents in the primary campaign

Senator Townsend s three republican opponents polled nearly two votes to his one and this, according to Cordell Hull chairman of the democratic national committee constitutes a highly significant protest vote which will be felt next November

Michigan has shown by its vote that it is against Newberryism, said Chairman Hull 'The democrats always have been against it of course and now the majority of the republicans show by their vote against Townsend that they agree with the democrats on this issue"

Townsend will be pitted in November against former governor Woodbridge Ferris who was unopposed for the democratic senatorial nomination

RAIL STRIKERS BATTLE COURT INJUNCTION

Thousands of Affidavits Presented to Court as Bar to Injunction

CHICAGO Sept 13—'The battle of affidavits in the hearing before U S Judge James H Wilkerson to make permanent the drastic injunction against the railroad strikers continued today

And with the government forces supplied with a car load of evidence it was believed that the barrage of sworn statements telling of acts against the railroads and railroad workers might continue throughout the week

Some arrangement it was hoped would be reached today so that large batches of the 17 000 affidavits the government has gathered from all parts of the country might be introduced collectively and the reading of each separate statement eliminated

The affidavits are being introduced in an effort to substantiate the government s charge that the strikers have entered into a conspiracy to restrain and destroy interstate commerce ' Only by the admission of a great number of the statements can the government hope to establish its c[ase] [a]s Judge Wilkerson pointed out yesterday a conspiracy is rarely established by direct evidence No single written or spoken word necessary to prove it It may be established by concerted action toward a common purpose

Just how many affidavits the government would seek to introduce into the evidence could not be learned today When the proceeding opened this morning Blackburn Esterline of the government s counsel seemingly was prepared to go on indefinitely reading acts of alleged violence and intimidation which have occurred during the strike in various parts of the country Only a mere handful of spectators were present in court today as the third day of the hearing began

Blackburn Esterline assistant solicitor general opened the session today by reading further affidavits He had reached his 22 th sworn statement and his voice sounded hoarse as a candidate campaigning for election when Attorney Donald Richberg for the defense asked permission to make a motion to shorten the proceedings

Judge Wilkerson inquired how much more time Esterline required

There may be a legal question as to the right of the men to strike against the ruling of the labor board he said but it may be that the government is submitting evidence of another sort of conspiracy to interfere with interstate commerce commission I think we should hear it

Attorney Esterline said he would read 25 more affidavits Judge Wilkerson then told Attorney Richberg he might make his motion at the conclusion of the reading

More affidavits were then in order

PEACE IN SIGHT AS RAILROADS SIGN AGREEMENT

KIPLING'S SLAM AT U. S. WAR RECORD DRAWS CRITICISM

Late [ph]oto of Rudyard Kipling.

The recent "impeachment" of America's record in the World war uttered by Rudyard Kipling, English poet, has brought a storm of criticism from American leaders. Kipling in an interview, stated that the U S entered the conflict late and quit early Americans say, "What of the 2 000 000 Americans who went across the 200,000 who were wounded and the 70 000 who were killed in battle; of America's feat in turning the tide at Chateau Thierry and shattering the German defense at the Argonne?"

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13.—Between 65 and 75 railroads have signed separate agreements at Chicago to end the shopmen's strike, according to an official report this afternoon to Secretary of Labor Davis from his representatives attending the peace conferences there.

CHICAGO, Sept. 13 — Success of the group settlement peace plan to end the rail strike hinged today on the number of railroads ready to sign

The strong die hard ' element who yesterday opposed the partial settlement plan in the meeting of the policy of the committee of ninety were reported to be holding out against the proposal of B. M Jewell president of the striking shopcrafts federation, until assured that a larger number of railroads would sign the peace agreement

Rumors that not more than ten or 15 railroads would actually sign the partial peace plan gave strength to the die hards' who have adopted a "show us ' attitude. They want to be convinced beyond the shadow of a doubt that from 30 to 51 railroads stand ready to make peace before granting Jewell authorization to enter into separate negotiations

In spite of this opposition, it was believed when the committee once more assembled behind closed doors in the Masonic temple building this morning that a vote would be reached during the day and that Jewell s plan would carry

Details of the partial peace plan have been thoroughly explained and for the most part accepted it is reported

We have all agreed," said one committeeman, "on the main provisions of the plan We have also agreed that those men who go back to work shall contribute two days pay each month to the strike fund to aid those who are still out

Thus we will be better able to fight 'die hard' executives. I think this argument will win over our own die hards' to the peace measure today '

The committeemen will vote by drafts today and a majority of crafts must vote for peace before peace can be negotiated Thus far the secret conference sessions have been open to the broadest discussion Every member has been given opportunity for a hearing and there has been an entire absence of any ' steam roller tactics "

All of the opposition to the plan has thus far come from representatives of the strikers on railroads which refuse to make peace At first they held out for a nation wide settlement or none Today they were said to be willing to favor the peace if assured "in black and white ' that a large number of railroads would immediately sign the partial agreement.

They argue that a partial settlement with only a dozen railroads will weaken and not strengthen their position and that the "die hard ' rail executives will only be swung into line if a large number of roads make peace

Neither President Jewell or any of the presidents of the six shopcrafts would hazard a prediction as to the outcome of the day's deliberations as they went into the session

"We don't know," was the terse answer to questions It was believed, however, that a decision could hardly be expected at the forenoon session

President Jewell declined to indicate what roads would be a party to the peace settlement should his policy committee favor it. 'That will be shown in due time and there is no use in speculating or guessing on it before we reach an agreement," he declared.

So far as the railroads themselves were concerned there [was] no indication today of any change in the lineup The Rock Island and the Erie railroad were classed on the doubtful list.

FORD ATTACKS COMMISSION FOR FAILURE

DETROIT Mich Sept 13—Henry Ford today issued a formal statement attacking the interstate commerce commission for its failure to see that coal was delivered to the public He did not refer to the threatened closing of his plants set for next Saturday

The statement follows in part

'The present so called coal crisis shows up the interstate commerce commission If this commission was ever useful it has now outlived its usefulness like the gold standard and Wall street in its control of empty coal cars the interstate commerce commission is playing right into the hands of profiteers under the guise of regulations for the public good The same interests who own the public utilities railroads and mines are using the commission as part of their scheme to fleece the public '

MRS. HARDING IS IMPROVING STEADILY

WASHINGTON Sept 13—The steady improvement in the condition of Mrs Warren G Harding wife of the president has been such as to forecast her complete recovery from the disease that carried her almost to death s door her physicians said today

The principal fear entertained by the doctors today was that unforeseen complications might arise to retard her steady improvement

Whether an operation will be performed depends entirely upon developments it was said The departure of Dr Mayo and Finney the surgeons indicated that no operation is in contemplation for the present at leas[t] Whether an operation will be performed when Mrs Harding's condition is better, depends a great deal on the patient herself according to Dr Sawyer, her personal physician

In any event it was emphasized today that the crisis had passed and barring unexpected and new complications the steady improvement of the last three days can be expected to continue

The White House spent one of the quietest nights since Mrs Harding was taken ill The president retired early and secured a good night s rest

While very sanguine over Mrs Harding's steadily improving condition her physicians today were by no means confident that they have the disease thoroughly in hand The kidneys have been subjected to extreme aggravation and irritation it was said and still have, even with the improvement a tremendous burden that would tax a well person

The White House issued the following statement at 9 15 o clock

"Mrs Harding s condition at 9 o clck

Temperature 98 8, pulse 88, respiration 28 She had a quite comfortable night sleeping longer and with less interruption Elimination increasing Tenderness and swelling slowly subsiding General appearances indicate as rapid improvement as can be expected

Signed 'C E Sawyer, M D."

This morning attorneys for Molack asked that the case be dismissed because the original search warrant contained Dormas name instead of Molack s and was changed after the police had arrived on the premises City solicitor Dow Baird held that as long as the premises were described and the affidavit stated what was expected to be found that it was legal, so Mayor Jones overruled the motion and the case proceeded At its conclusion Molack was found guilty and was fined $500 and costs His attorneys appealed the conviction and will take the case to the court of common pleas on error

Benjamin Griffith of Denver defeated Lieutenant Governor Earl Cooley for the republican gubernatorial nomination

Indications were that the four republican congressmen from Colorado had been renominated

In the first congressional district (Denver) a hot three-cornered fight resulted in the apparent nomination of former Congressman Ben Hilliard by a scant one hundred votes George R Kindel, the "wet" candidate in this race was a poor third, while James A Marsh, Denver city attorney, gave Hilliard a close fight.

BULGARIA MAY WAR ON GREECE

LONDON Sept 13—Bulgaria is preparing to go to war against Greece, as a result of the Greek defeat by the Turks, to restore the old Bulgarian boundary in the southeastern corner of the Balkans, according to information received here today It is reported that fighting already has broken out between Turks, Bulgarian irregulars and Greeks on the southern frontier of Bulgaria

The Greek legation in London charges that the Bulgarians are preparing to "tear up" the treaty of Neuilly just as the Turks overthew the treaty of Sevres The Greeks claim to have information from Sofia that the Bulgarians are receiving the support of soviet Russia on condition that the attack be made against Rumania instead of Turkey

It is pointed out that if another Balkan war comes Russia may be involved and Bulgarian hostilities against Rumania would enable the Russians to cross Rumanian and Bulgarian territory in an effort to occupy Constantinople This interpretation is regarded by British officials as far fetched in view of the fact that red Russia has an alliance with the Turkish nationalists who have first claim on Constantinople

THE HAPPY MAN

Everybody is seeking after happiness. The man who drank "hootch" last night, and woke up with a bad head this morning, was seeking after happiness. To be sure he made a blundering quest of it; but that was what he was really after.

The road to happiness is not along the ways in which most of us are seeking it. There are men who leave the country to make their fortune in the city; and when they have made their pile they go back and buy the old place where they spent their boyhood. They think there they are going to be happy. And when they get there, they find they are not happy at all. The trouble is with themselves, and only within themselves will they find the springs of happiness.

The whole trouble with the world today is that men think that happiness consists in things that can be measured with a yardstick or weighed on Fairbanks' scales. The politician thinks it is in more power. The employer thinks it is in more factories or more profits. The worker thinks it is in more wages and shorter hours. These are only relative after all. And nothing is more evident than that happiness is not in any of these things. All these things cannot be despised. The nations must be intelligently governed, and wise men are needed for that purpose. Industry must be conducted if the needs of men are to be met. And a living wage and sufficient leisure is the supreme need of the worker.

But when all these things are obtained, the individual must still be reckoned with. All our social programs are worthless unless they take the individual into account. The spirit of good will, the passion for justice and right, the right use of what we have,—all these, and many other things are very vital factors in securing happiness for the individual and for society as a whole.

THE STRIKE EXPLAINS EVERYTHING

Even when there are no strikes on, there are frequently accidents on the railroads. We receive news of them almost daily, and sometimes the accounts of several in a day.

As to the cause in such cases, it is usually a profound mystery, if one can believe the reports of the railroad companies. But one never hears of an accident on the railroads, where there is a strike in progress, concerning which the roads are in the least particle of doubt as to its cause.

The strikers are always to blame. It is a filed switch lock, a spread rail, a withdrawn spike. If you will notice, the news dispatches in reporting these incidents all use the words, "It is said" or "suggested" or something of that kind, but it all leads, however, to the desired end, of creating sentiment against the men.

Those who desire to spread the impression, have no hesitancy in endeavoring to make the public believe that a group of honest, and law abiding workmen, are immediately metamorphosed into a gang of murderers and other criminals, the moment they refuse to continue to work under the stipulations of the company.

A NEEDED AGITATION

We notice that there is a campaign soon to be launched, by the Highway Education Board, on behalf of a safety demonstration. It is proposed that there shall be a Seven Days for Safety period observed. During this time distribution of pledges of carefulness will be distributed, and a general agitation carried on, which will tend to awaken the mind of the people of the country toward this very important subject. October 8th to 14 th has been suggested as the time, and the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce has offered to set aside approximately six thousand dollars, for prizes, for the best essays and lessons on "Safety."

As a matter of fact, safety weeks have been put on in different sections of the country in the past. In Detroit they have held them for several years. It has demonstrated a lowering of the death rate, for the seven days of the demonstration, and it has enlisted the support of men and women whose continued help has made the effects lasting. This has secured that degree of publicity to the whole movement, which it deserves. Here is hoping that the Safety Week will be put on with a vengeance throughout the country.

Because of so many explosions of stills, which have wrecked buildings in New York, it is reported that the New York people are getting behind prohibition. The direct injury to property does stir some people, when the destruction of folks had little effect upon them.

It is reported that De Valera and Childers have been captured. Probably this is the only way they could get them to attend the provisional parliament.

Reduction of Armaments Appeal Evokes Unanimous Refusal

Twenty-four nations refuse to sanction any reduction of armaments each declaring a special menace exists which prevents them from complying with the appeal of the assembly of the league of nations at Geneva. Outstanding are the German, Muscovite and Turkish menaces.

Don't the policemen have a soft snap? I'll say they don't. It rained last Friday night remember? About three A. M. the police phone rang, "Somebody blew the safe in the Abe Cohen's clothing store." In about two minutes all the police in Elyria were headed there and in another minute several hundred people gathered. They couldn't find the explosion — Finally Plank Zarnkey figured it out. A transformer blew out in the rear of Savage's store and a mirror in the rear window of Abe's reflected the flash. This along with the noise caused all the commotion. Bill T. Lee Hovis saw it and he told me, "The Police force were all wet."

Autumn Garments Appear In Latest Styles Arrive at Style Center

With the waning of summer and the approach of fall, thoughts are turned towards autumn garments. The Style Center opens its fall merchandising season with a display of charming garments. The opening starts today and will continue Thursday and Friday. Mr. Goldstein says that the Style Center has gone to a large expense in securing the finest line of merchandise the markets afford and that his showing would do credit to a city of ten times the size of Elyria.

The models displayed will include afternoon and dinner gowns, costume suits, coats and suits. A large assortment has been secured through the cooperative purchasing plan with some sixteen other stores. By this method a resident office is maintained in New York and any new developments in the merchandising world are reflected in the local Style Center store within forty-eight hours. This makes it possible for Broadway fashion to be seen on Broad street at the Style Center within a very few hours after their first appearance in New York City. The public is cordially invited to the Style Center autumn display.

Coroner Probes Killing Boy By Sheriff

DAYTON Sept 13 — Information hitherto not revealed, regarding the roadside tragedy in which one boy was killed and three others shot by Sheriff Lincoln Funderberg and his deputies at Xenia, was announced today by Coroner Hamer who is conducting an inquest into the death of Volney Nicholas, one of the victims

The coroner was reliably informed he said that Harold Moore son of a Methodist minister at Camden was the person who reported to the sheriff that boys, engaged in a harmless prank, were operating as bandits, according to his belief

Young Moore and his sweetheart Miss Ronia Humphrey, of near Wilmington were driving past the place and when the boys pulled the wire attached to an automobile tire supposed to have been lost they rushed to the sheriff's office and accompanied him and his deputies to the scene Both witnessed the tragic climax of the boyish joke

Miss Moore has since been confined to his bed suffering from shock The young woman is expected to testify this afternoon

All the boys who have testified thus far before the coroner agree that the warning was given by the sheriff before the shooting

Six clean cut boys sons of well to do parents who reside on the Wilmington pike near Xenia were some of the witnesses questioned by Prosecutor J K Williamson

Among the six was Clarence Keller, 12 whose baby face was filled with importance as he raised his right hand to swear to tell the truth "A man with a mustache grabbed me by the arm and said: 'What are you trying to do, commit murder?' said the child beginning his story of the shooting

They had congregated in the evening at the home of Victor and Donald Weaver, near the scene of the shooting and decided to have fun fooling autoists with a tire They took their position behind a pile of lumber All motorists took it good naturedly, according to the lads and they were unprepared for trouble.

The sheriff's car was treated like the rest and as Patrolman Simms started to pick up the tire, the boys arose to laugh as usual. "Just then," they all testified, "the shooting started and we went back behind the lumber. We didn't know they were officers until Simms walked down to where we were and with an oath said 'Get out from behind there, or I will shoot you dead'"

Then Donald Weaver, 22, the oldest boy, stood up and said:

"For Gods sake Charley, don't shoot

Simms paid no heed but shouted "shut up, shut up, or I'll kill you," Don said Then a second volley of shots came He said he was acquainted with Simms and thought he would know him. "I couldn't make him understand any thing," said the boy

After that they had walked out with arms held up, Simms and the other officers recognized their error

"Come now, see what you have done," said Weaver.

To his tales of malnutrition.
Do not wonder, do not guess

I am greatly interested in the present congressional imbroglio over the tariff. I have been interested in this selfsame tariff fight ever since Grover Cleveland was president and prevailed upon a gentleman by the name of Wilson (not Woodrow) to write a tariff bill. As I remember the Wilson bill, it removed the tariff entirely, or nearly so, and gave us free trade. As I remember it, the general disgust was also the same under this order of things as it was before. Then, with a loud whoop, we returned to high tariff under the McKinley bill which I believe was promulgated while a man with whiskers by the name of Harrison was president. There was some dissatisfaction with this, if I remember correctly, and a gentleman named Dingley tried his hand at the tariff with some kind of results which I do not clearly recollect. Mr. Bryan made three or four forays against the tariff and landed each time through the roof of a Chautauqua tent with a thud. All seemed to go well until Mr. Taft got to be president, and the people thought the tariff was too high, when two men by the name of Payne and Aldrich, one in the house and one in the senate, got to fussing with the tariff to lower it, and made a mistake and hightered it, and Mr. Taft signed the bill and then retired to private life. Then Woodrow did something to the tariff. I don't believe anybody had a clear idea just what it was, but the public always demands that something be done to it, and after he got it all fixed it didn't suit anybody. Now Senator McCumber and Congressman Joe Fordney have done something to it. I am interested in what they have done, but am not wildly excited over it. In fact, I don't believe it will make any difference to me whether it is passed or forgotten. I have noticed that when we have passed from high tariff to low tariff my bills have become higher and when we have passed from a low tariff to a high tariff my bills have also become higher. Perhaps it would be just as well to let the thing alone for a few years and let my bills remain stationary until I catch up with them.

MURDER MYSTERY LAID TO VENDETTA

CANTON, Sept. 13—An unidentified man was shot and killed late last night and Louis Bloconoco, 24, is unconscious in Mercy hospital with six bullet wounds in his body, not expected to live. Bloconoco and twelve year old Laura Brunoni, accompanied the girl's aunt to her home after a visit to the Brunonoi home, and while returning two men jumped from an alley and pushed a gun against Bloconoco.

Just then one of the attackers grabbed at the gun, but missed his hold. Six shoots followed and the girl ran home. Police were notified. It was while searching the neighborhood that they found the body of the dead man in the alley beside the Brunoni home. The victim had been shot several times. Police say the girl believes the dead man was the one who attempted to grab the gun when Bloconoco was shot. Officials attribute the killing and shooting to an Italian vendetta.

Two weeks ago two women and a man were brutally clubbed to death and a fourth man badly hurt in the same neighborhood. That mystery also remains unsolved.

BRIDE OF YEAR SHOT TO DEATH

ZANESVILLE, Sept. 13. — Mrs. Raymond Saunders, 18, bride of a year, was shot and almost instantly killed at a Muskingum river fishing camp, two miles from here, late last night. Her husband, who claims she committed suicide, is being held by the police pending investigation by both county and city officials.

A CORRECTION

In speaking of the arrest and conviction of A Forthover, of Avon on a charge of selling liquor to a minor, the real facts in the case are that Elmo Brooks, did not become intoxicated and did not sign the affidavit for Forthover's arrest Instead the affidavit was signed by Leon Brown a companion, who charged Forthover with selling wine to Brooks When the party that was with Brooks was arrested for intoxication at Lorain, Brooks was sober, and it was a case of bad company for him, as he has heretofore been a reliable, well thought of young man.

DINNER STORIES

The conjurer was performing in a room adjoining a gunpowder factory. A sailor and his parrot were enjoying the show. The conjurer charged half a crown int a penny. "Now that's a fine trick," said the sailor, lighting his pipe. "I wonder what he'll do next?" The sailor then threw away his match.

A minute later there was no sailor, no factory, no room, no village. On a steeple a mile away the parrot, with one feather remaining, said, "Now that's a fine trick. I wonder what he'll do next?"—Tit-Bits.

A prolonged wail and the sound of bumping down from step to step proclaimed disaster. At the foot of the stairs the mother picked up her precious four-year-old, and asked how it happened. "One foot stepped on nothing," was his tearful reply—New York Telegraph.

A clergyman was having tea with a family newly settled in his parish. On the sideboard were several decanters, filled with what looked like spirits.

"My friend," he said to his hostess, "you should avoid even the appearance of evil. I do not suggest that you drink, but——"

"Why, Vicar, they're only filled with furniture polish. It's the decanters I like, they're so pretty."

"Exactly," said the Vicar, "avoid even the appearance of evil. I repeat. I helped myself to a drink . . . the big decanter in the middle."

ACIDS IN STOMACH CAUSE INDIGESTION

Create Gas, Sourness and Pain How To Treat.

Medical authorities states that nearly nine-tenths of the cases of stomach trouble, indigestion, sourness, burning, gas, bloating, nausea, etc, are due to an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach and not as some believe to a lack of digestive juices. The delicate stomach lining is irritated, digestion is delayed and food sours, causing the disagreeable symptoms which every stomach sufferer knows so well.

Artificial digestents are not needed in such cases and may do real harm. Try laying aside all digestive aids and instead get from any druggist a few ounces of Bisurated Magnesia and take a teaspoonful in a quarter glass of water right after eating. This sweetens the stomach, prevents the formation of excess acid and there is no sourness, gas or pain. Bisurated Magnesia (in powder or tablet form—never liquid or milk) is harmless to the stomach. Inexpensive to take and is the most efficient form of magnesia for stomach purposes. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion.

AWARD ELYRIA AVENUE PAVING

AMHERST, Sept. 13.—The village council held a special meteing last evening to let the contract on the Elyria avenue paving The sealed bids that had been in the council's possession for a week opened and the contract was awarded to the lowest bidder, Harry J. Hait, of Lorain. Two other firms also bid on the work, the Elyria Construction Company and Hill & Hill. The cost of the paving will run near but not over the estimate of Engineer Warden, which was 85c per foot. Hait agrees to have the work finished inside of twenty days after the council gives him notice that he can start work. It is hoped that the work can begin soon because macadam that is laid during warm weather is much better than that laid in cold weather.

The council also discussed installing a fence along the north side of Milan avenue, where it crosses Beaver Creek. The fence that had formerly been there was removed by the pavers and it is dangerous without one.

...S SAYS ...NCTION IS ...UNION ATTACK

...s Federal Proceed... Is Part of Open ...p Drive to Destroy ...de Unionism

...LANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 13. ...General injunction proceedings Chicago are "part of the open ... drive to destroy trade union... in this country," Samuel Gom..., president of the American fed...tion of Labor, charged today. ...pers is attending the meeting ...he executive council of the fed...tion, which is considering the ...sibility of levying an assess...nt upon the six million members ...help the railway shop strikers. ...mpers issued a signed statement ...ing:

"The proceeding at Chicago is a ...ery spectacle, avowedly a part of ...e open shop drive to destroy ...ions in order that the big busi...ss and financial interests may ...l with the workers individually. ...e wage earners know that their ...ly salvation lies in organization ...d that as individuals they could ...t prevent the power of corporate ...alth to force wages and working ...d living conditions lower and lower until peonage and slavery again curse our nation."

Gompers declared that "it will be better for administration of a great republic like ours," to prosecute some men in politics rather than "prosecute the working men." He added that the government should insist upon a wage sufficient to rear American families in health and decency.

The executive council is understood to be considering the question of a general strike although there appears to be little sentiment among the leaders here in favor of it. It is believed that the most influential of the leaders favor a concentration of effort to assist the striking railway shop men. In this connection, it is proposed to raise a big "war chest" by assesament of the members of the federation.

It is declared that the fight against the injunction will be continued, even if the strike should be ended tomorrow, or if the injunction is withdrawn because of the constitutional principle involved.

ELYRIAN REPORTS ARREST IN OHIO ARSON CASE

COLUMBUS, Sept. 13.—State Fire Marshal H. A. Dykeman has received word that George Polus, a foreigner, had been held to the grand jury on $5,000 bond, for arson, by Mayor Perry Immel of Willard, and that in default of bail, Polus was jailed.

On September 5 at 1:10 a. m., fire was discovered at 9 Myrtle avenue, in the Willard Candy Kitchen, owned by James Polus, but run by George, his brother.

Polus was formerly of Crestline.

James Polus was at Mt. Clemens, taking the baths, and had nothing to do with the fire.

Business was bad and George's bank account had run down to $18. He had $1,000 insurance on a stock said to have been worth about $300, and $2,500 on fixtures. Besides, this, he was paying for most of his fixtures, etc., on the installment plan.

On August 31 at 1:10 a. m., there was a fire that did considerable damage to the candy stock. Polus, out of town when this blaze occurred, blamed the fire on an alleged mythical clerk, whose name he fails to remember. On September 5, another fire was discovered under an enclosed stairway, in the "kitchen" and the store door had not been unlocked since the first fire. Again, Polus claims an alibi. He had the only key to the store.

A complete arson plant under the place, cleverly set with electric wires to furnish the spark, was found in the first fire.

Deputies W. S. Carlisle and W. O. Clarke turned the evidence over to Mayor Immel and he bound the man over.

"I knew him when he was a boy"

What one is there of us that has not felt the glow of satisfaction over the outstanding success of a life-long friend! Often a surprise—seemingly "all of a sudden." Yet neither surprising nor sudden, when you stop to think back over each step of his progress.

THE United States Rubber Company—makers of U. S. Royal Cords—were first to conceive, make and announce the balanced tire. A tire in which there is such complete unity of action in tread and carcass that neither will give way before the other.

First to conceive, make and announce a complete line of tires—a tire for every need of price and use under one standard of quality.

First to tell the public about the good and bad in tire-retailing. (You remember the phrase "Go to a legitimate dealer and get a legitimate tire.")

First also to arouse industrial and trade minds to the need of a new kind of tire competition. (Competition for better and better values. Greater and greater public confidence.)

• • •

THESE high spots along the U. S. road to leadership indicate the intent—the will to win by the quality route in a price market.

Now that so many car-owners have given their verdict for quality tires in general, and U. S. Tires in particular—a number of dealers and car-owners whose vision has been clouded by "discounts," "sales" and what not, are beginning to remember that they "knew him when he was a boy."

PLAN CONGRESS ADJOURNMENT THIS MONTH

This Will Leave Five Weeks' Campaigning For November Election

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13.—Adjournment of Congress by the end of September so senators and congressmen may have five weeks in which to prepare their constituents for the November election, was forecast today by administration leaders.

While congressional optimists hoped to be homeward bound by September 23, a threatened renewal of the tariff fight in the Senate indicated the adjournment would not be reached until the following week end. A presidential veto, although not expected by its Republican advocates, would also delay the congressional "get away" until an effort was made to pass the bill over the president's rejection.

The legislative program today consists of finally enacting the tariff and bonus into law on the compromise agreements reached in conferences. With both tariff and bonus en route to the White House, the administration's twin coal bills, creating a coal inquiry commission and a feceral coal distributor, must be completed. The rivers and harbors authorization bill, now in conference, must also be finally passed.

On top of these measures, a half dozen appropriation bills will be jammed through the two bodies to meet expenditures authorized by congress in the last two weeks. The house appropriation committee met today to draft these measures. Among them are a $100,000 appropriation for the president's coal inquiry commission; $250,000 for the coal distributor; $200,000 for the German mixed claim commission, an unestimated sum for paying "audited claims" against the government and small sums for the widows of the late Senators Crow, Republican, of Pennsylvania, and Representative Padgett, Democrat, of Tennessee.

Meanwhile, congressional leaders hoped to get the tariff through the house today and debate started on it tomorrow in the senate. The bonus would then follow the tariff through the house, reaching the senate by Saturday where it would be delayed until the tariff was finally enacted and sent to the White House. Quick ratification of the bonus compromise was predicted with indications it would be sent to the White House a day behind the tariff.

If the bonus is signed at once by the president, congress will be ready to go home by Saturday, September 23, but a veto would reopen the bonus fight in both branches. Its passage over the veto in the house could be easily accomplished, leaders said, but the fight in the senate would be protected with success doubtful. In any event, adjournment would be delayed for another week or until Saturday, September 30.

NERVOUS AND HALF-SICK WOMEN

These Letters Recommending Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will Interest You

For Your Own Good Please Read Them

Youngstown, Ohio.—"Last fall I began to feel mean and my back hurt me and I could hardly do my little bit of housework. I was played out when I would just sweep one room and would have to rest. I would have to put a cushion behind me when I would sit down and at night I could not sleep unless I had something under my back. I had awful cramps every month and was just nearly all in. Finally my husband said to me one day, 'Why don't you try Lydia E. Pinkham's medicine?' and I said, 'I am willing to take anything if I could get well again.' So I took one bottle and a second one and felt better and the neighbors asked me what I was doing and said, 'Surely it must be doing you good all right.' I have just finished my eighth bottle and I cannot express to you how I feel, the way I would like to. If you can use this letter you are welcome to it and if any woman does not believe what I have written to be true, she can write to me and I will describe my condition to her as I have to you." —Mrs. ELMER BEASLEY, 141 S. Jackson St., Youngstown, Ohio.

"I was very nervous and rundown," writes Mrs. L. E. Wiese of 706 Louisa St., New Orleans, La. "I would often sit down and cry, and was always blue and had no ambition. I was this way for over a year and had allowed myself to get into quite a serious condition. One day I saw your advertisement in the daily paper and began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once. I have improved ever since taking the third bottle and I find it is the best medicine I have ever taken."

Benefited by First Bottle

"I was completely run down and not able to do my housework. I just dragged myself around and did not have energy to get up when once I sat down. I read advertisements of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in our paper 'The Indiana Daily Times,' and learned all about it. I received results from the very first bottle and now I am doing all my own work, even washing and ironing, and I never felt better in my life. I tell all my friends it is due to you." —Mrs. ELIZABETH REINBOLD, 403 N. Pine St., Indianapolis, Indiana.

You should pay heed to the experiences of these women. They know how they felt before taking the Vegetable Compound, and afterwards, too. Their words are true.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Private Text-Book upon "Ailments Peculiar to Women" will be sent you free upon request. Write to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.

GIRDLES ARE NOT ALWAYS A SIMPLE TWIST OF RIBBON

The girdle often makes the frock this season. It is rarely, if ever, a simple twist of ribbon. More often than not it is a metal or beaded affair made in the semblance of a yoke as shown here. This gown of crepe romaine in a tangerine tint is unadorned save for the silver cire girdle embroidered in steel beads which is worn over the hips.

DINNER STORIES

Mr. Linkins, the junior member of the firm, had a peculiarly irritating sneeze. It began with an elaborate and terrifying series of facial convulsions, and ended with a most lame and impotent paroxysm that always disappointed the expectant observer.

"Your sneeze," said Mr. Jenkins, the senior partner, after watching him through one of his performances, "is a regular circus."

"A circus?" said Mr. Linkins.

"Yes," was the rejoinder. "The performance never comes up to the advance notices." — Philadelphia Ledger.

Ohio Wesleyan in National Life

President Harding says—"Christian education is essential to Christian citizenship, and right civic leadership". Ohio Wesleyan has admirably met the ever-present demand for virile, up-standing, God-fearing men in public life.

As Senator from Indiana and Vice President of the United States, the late Charles Warren Fairbanks, class of 1872, was an exemplar of the Ohio Wesleyan tradition of straight thinking and straight living; —qualities so necessary in steering our Nation through its great crises into normal, well-ordered life.

Ohio Wesleyan has the creditable record of providing such distinguished men as Herrick, Pattison and Foraker to serve a total of five terms as Chief Executive of Ohio; in addition to Governors for six other states:—Hamilton of Illinois, Elbert of Colorado, Atkinson of West Virginia, Hoyt of Wyoming, Cosgrove of Washington, and Steele, the first Governor of Oklahoma.

UNCLE SAM LOSES BEST LAWYERS

The Government has lost another strong team of lawyers Edward M Hyzer has left his post as General Counsel to the Shipping Board, and William G Wheeler, high in the affairs of the Railroad Administration has likewise forsaken official duties and these two eminent lawyers will henceforth be associated in Washington, D. C, in the private practice of their profession.

The return of Messrs. Hyzer and Wheeler to private legal pursuits is an added chapter to the "continued story" which relates the withdrawal of the best lawyers of the country from the public service The explanation is that the duties are usually burdensome and the scale of compensation too much of a personal sacrifice Mr Hyzer was formerly Vice President and General Counsel of the great Chicago & Northwestern railroad system; while Mr. Wheeler was United States District Attorney in Wisconsin for many year before becoming a railroad General Solicitor and Assistant General Counsel of the Railroad Administration. They have now returned to the lawyer's haven of delight where "the man who first invented work left it unbound and free," and have resumed practice before the Supreme Court, the Interstate Commerce Commission, the Federal Trade Commission, the Shipping Board and the Treasury Department, and other administrative branches of the Government.

PROF. BRECKENRIDGE RETURNS FROM ABROAD

OBERLIN, Sept 13—Prof Breckenridge has returned to Oberlin from his long trip through Western Europe His party, composed of both students and teachers, left early in the summer for Italy landing at Naples after 16 days of a rather boresome ship life This delay was caused by trouble with the ship which in one case ran fast on a sand bar in the St Lawrence river The party traveled through Italy, visiting Rome Then they took an auto trip over Cyclone Pass Much time was spent in Switzerland, Holland, Germany, which Prof Breckenridge considers a wonderful place in which to buy things because of the low value of the Mark

The party spent a week in Paris, then took aeroplanes and crossed the English Channel to London in three hours Side trips were made out from London for the purpose of seeing the old castles and other interesting things in which England abounds and which the tourist enjoys A day was spent at Oxford inspecting the colleges there England's oldest Library is found at Merton College Some of the large books are chained to the shelves They can be read but not carried off The trip which was both a pleasure and an educational one ended at Boston a week ago last Friday

SERVICE Is Not "Goods"

If telephone service was sold over the counter---

If gas came in bags---

If electric energy was furnished by the yard---

If street car rides were provided on a block to-block basis---it would not be uncommon to hear something like the following:

"I'd like about 300 words of good snappy conversation-how much is it today?"

"Pon my word we're com-plete-ly out of gas. I must hurry down and get a coffee-boil out of it before John gets home"

"Give me ten blocks of rapid transportation, please. I want to get a bolt of that electricity they have on sale today."

HISTORY

Our Taxes in 1921 Were $55,000.00

This is quite a sum of money and you will surely agree that we are paying our share of the cost of government The largest part of this went to support the city government and the schools in the City of Elyria.

It is just one of the many items of expense that we have and shows that we have a large sum of money invested in Lorain county.

HISTORY

Here are some interesting facts in regard to the progress of lighting The earliest form of lighting was a wood fire in a cave.

5000 B. C.—Torches or lighted splinters placed in holders of stone or clay.

300 B. C.—Lamps, made of brass or bronze, became highly artistic.

50 B. C.—Romans used brushes soaked in grease—forerunners of the candle.

300 A. D.—Phoenicians introduced candles in Constantinople.

400 to 1700 A. D.—The candle, tallow or wax, vies with lamps and lanterns.

1700—Oil lamps, with wicks, began to be used.

1780—Oil lamps are equipped with round wicks and glass chimney

1800—Gas lighting perfected, but candles still most universal light.

1850—Discovery of petroleum, revolutionizing oil lamp lighting.

1879—Edison, apostle of light, produces incandescent electric lamp.

1885—Auer Von Welsbach produced incandescent gas mantle.

1895—Incandescent electric lights made with carbon filament, in growing use

1922—Incandescent electric light, using Tungsten filament, in high state of perfection.

What will be the next?

OF COURSE PUBLIC UTILITY SERVICE IS NOT MEASURED OR SOLD IN THAT MANNER

IT IS FAR DIFFERENT THAN "GOODS."

One difference, for example, is that public utility companies, which are under state regulation, cannot conduct their business like the merchant. The merchant fixes his prices and determines what his profits shall be. Public service company "profits" are limited to merely an interest return on the investment.

The public utility business is a different business. . .

...OWNS, YANKS IN CLOSE RACE FOR A. L. TITLE

The Browns gained 1-2 a game on the Yankees yesterday when they defeated the Tigers, while the Yankees were traveling westward to open their series in Chicago today. The Yanks now lead by a full game.

In the national league there was no change, the Giants still retaining their advantage of 5 1-2 games over the Pirates. Neither club played yesterday.

A setback by either the Yanks or Browns will prove disastrous to the other team. Each must go at top speed to forestall the other. The Yanks have lost two less games than the Browns, with each having the same number of victories, the Yanks have 17 more games to play while the Browns have 15. The series between the two teams which begins Saturday in St. Louis may have a marked effect on deciding the pennant.

The Giants have twenty more games to play while the Pirates have 19. The possibilities of the Giants winning can be seen from the fact that they need only travel at a speed little above .500 while the Pirates must go at a .750 gait to overcome the handicap.

The Yankees and Giants have the hardest schedule in the next two weeks. Each must meet first division clubs while the Pirates and Browns, outside of their games with the Giants and Yankees, play second division teams.

Tagging The Bases

Minus George Sisler, their star, who may be out of the game for the rest of the season, the Browns gained half a game on the Yanks by whipping the Tigers, 8 to 6. The Browns came from behind to earn a belated victory. They are now one full game behind the Yanks.

Rain interferred with the Pirates and Cardinals yesterday. They were scheduled to play the Braves and Phillies. None of the other national league teams were scheduled to play.

Although the White Sox staged a triple play, it availed them naught. The Indians romped home with the game, 8 to 3. Four men figured in the triple play in the eighth inning when the bases were occupied. Johnson, Shealy

SISLER MAY BE OUT OF LINEUP FOR FEW DAYS

ST. LOUIS, MO., Sept. 13.—George Sisler, star first sacker of the St. Louis Browns likely will be out of the game until the important series with the New York Yankees opens here next Saturday, it was announced today.

Sisler was out of the lineup yesterday with a strained shoulder from which he has been given little relief. The injury was suffered on Monday when the pride of the Browns reached high and wide for a throw from Walter Gerber short stop.

The injured member has given the player such intense pain that he will be absent from the game until the latter part of the week, when the Yankees come here, for a three game series that will have a bearing on the close pennant race.

SPORT SNAP SHOTS

BY JACK KEENE

The success of the Andersons in the recent Canadian tennis tourney calls attention to the fact that while combinations of fathers and sons often thrive in business, they rarely are in the front rank in athletics. The reason for this is that when the ordinary youth is old enough to give a good account of himself in sports his dad is ready to retire to less strenuous pursuits.

Every year there is a Father and Son tennis tournament. Last year sixteen teams played and the Anderson combination that played in Canada won the championship for the third successive time, defeating Alfred H. Chapin, senior and junior, former title holders, in the finals.

The parent Anderson, however, has an advantage over most fathers because another son, Fred Anderson, is as skilled at tennis as his brother. Both boys are exceptionally tall, and while their father is a six footer, each of the sons towers several inches above six feet.

However, the Andersons were defeated in the finals for the championship in 1918 by the Chapins, who lost last year. The Andersons were victorious over the Chapins in the 1921 semi-finals, and then obtained permanent possession of the prizes offered by W. D. Hadsell of the West Side Tennis Club.

New England has developed another formidable tennis team in the J. D. E. Jones family of Providence, R. I., with J. D. E. Jones the father alternating with "Ded" junior and Arnold W., the latter now in England with the Harvard-Yale team for a series with Oxford-Cambridge.

Other combinations of father and son of tennis fame are Craig Biddle and his son, George, of Philadelphia; Dr. Linn Emerson and his son, Gerald B., of Orange, N. J.; Charles M. Bull and his son; Joseph W. Wear and his son, W. Potter, of Philadelphia, who went to the finals against the Andersons last year; Berry Grant and his son of Atlanta; Fred M. Letson and his son, Ben H., of New York; Arthur Ingraham and his son, William, of Providence, R. I., and Fred H. Hovey and his son, now at Harvard.

Fred Hovey is the most noted of all these players. He was national champion in 1895 and national doubles champion with C. H. Hart in 1893 and 1894. Anderson senior stood tenth in national ranking in 1905 and eighth in 1906.

Jack Munro, the Australian promoter, who runs the string of boxing clubs in Australia known as Stadiums Limited, is coming to the U. S. in search of talent for his clubs. Munro does not expect to take any champions back with him, for he will be satisfied with a few good second raters. Boxing seems to pay better in the Philippines than in Australia. Bud Ridley, who recently made the trip to Australia, stopping off at Manilla, received $11,000 for eight bouts in Australia and $12,000 for three contests at Manila, one of them with Elino Flores.

"The world's fastest human," is the title that has been bestowed upon Charley Paddock, the wing-footed athlete from the slopes of the Pacific. Paddock is unquestionably the greatest sprinter within the memory of present day folk and for generations back.

I sometimes wonder if there were, back in the distant past as long as centuries ago, men who sped over the ground at a faster pace than Paddock.

Were the fleet-footed runners who carried messages for Caesar able to outdistance pursuit by sprinting at a dazzling speed that would have left Paddock steps behind over a distance of 220 yards?

RAISE POT TO COMBAT RATES

CINCINNATI, Sept. 13. As a result of the conference held here Tuesday between shippers from Louisville and Cincinnati at the chamber of commerce the local men are preparing to raise $10,000 to match the fund already pledged at Louisville to carry on the fight before the interstate commerce commission for a more equitable freight rate scheduled between northern and southern points.

Shippers in this and the Kentucky city declare that the tariffs between Chicago and southern points discriminated against Cincinnati and Louisville by comparison with the rates between these two cities and the same points in the south.

Spends $82,375 Above Allowance In Senate Race

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Sept. 13.—Campaign expenses totalling $82,500 are shown in the final expense account filed with the secretary of state here by F. C. Edwards. Huntington "mattress king," defeated for the republican nomination for United States senator in the recent primary. Among expenses listed are payments of $30,000 to Ira Harshbarger and $35,000 to Sherman Denham.

"I hope the next try I make,, which will be two years from now, that I may have better results," Edwards said in a letter accompanying his statement.

ORGAN DEDICATED.

WELLINGTON, Sept. 13.—The new $6100 organ at the Lyric theatre was dedicated Tuesday night. Everyone who was fortunate to hear Prof. Trimmer of the Knickerbocker theatre play on the new organ were delighted. The new instrument is the largest organ made that installs its pipes in cabinets. This eliminates the expense of building the pipes into the wall. It is a unification of a church pipe organ of ten combinations and an orchestra of 16 combinations. There are also 12 motion picture effects, such as bird whistle, train effect, etc. Among the orchestral attachments are base and snare drums, cathedral chimes, orchestra bells, etc.

Mr. Powell, manager of the theatre, has made every effort to give Wellington the finest picture house possible.

CINCINNATI, Sept. 13.—Unmasked and heavily armed, three young white men thought to have been the same trio that held up and robbed a Central avenue confectionery of $100 on Monday night, duplicated their feat on Tuesday evening when the visited a Walnut Hills drug store and took the proeprietor's $25 watch and $35 from the cash register.

"If you squawk to the police," they told Henry H. Grothaus, the druggist, and a friend who was in the store at the time, "we'll come back tomorrow night and get you." The two men waited until the robbers were well out of sight before they summoned courage to call the police.

WEST POINT ACADEMY STUDENT IS MISSING

ZANESVILLE, O., Sept. 13.—James Albert Cochran, 18 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cochran of Trinway, near here, is missing from West Point military academy, and Burns' detectives have been employed by the family to find him.

According to the message received here today, young Cochran who was appointed to the academy by Congressman C. Ellis Moore last spring, disappeared from the summer camp at West Point on Thursday, Sept. 7, and has not been seen or heard from since.

He is a member of one of the best known and wealthiest families in Muskingum county and the news of his disappearance has caused a sensation here.

ATTEMPT AGAIN TO OUST PORTO RICO GOVERNOR

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13.—Renewed pressure today was brought to bear upon the administration to remove E. Mont Reily, of Kansas City as governor of Porto Rico. The chief justice of the Porto Rican supreme court has scathingly denounced the governor in a formal opinion delivered from the bench, according to official despatches.

THE STORY of an UNLOVED WIFE

AS TOLD TO GRACE PHELPS

BILLY UPBRAIDS TED

"There isn't much doubt about it," said Ted rather stiffly the more so that it dawned upon him that perhaps he had been too hasty in jumping to conclusions. "When a man who has been flirting outrageously with a woman leaves town suddenly and without much excuse—nobody at the office seemed to know why Alec should have to go to Washington—and when that same woman packs up and leaves for the same city, anybody with a grain of sense could put two and two together."

"H'm," Billy sniffed, ignoring the fact that Doris had taken the same view of the matter. "Fine masculine logic, that! I don't suppose it occurred to you that it might have been a coincidence. Why didn't you get hold of the Estelle person's husband and find out what address she had given in Washington and then do a little detective work before you made up your mind Alec was a rascal? Don't you ever give anybody the benefit of the doubt?"

"Call Wirfield up yourself and find out!" retorted Ted.

"I will!" said Billy. "It's time somebody used a little common sense in this affair."

Ted lay back on his pillows, feeling rather like the villain in the piece. He had made up his mind almost from the very first that Alec had taken advantage of the unprotected position of Doris, to force marriage upon her, though from what motive he could not fathom since it was not a real marriage in any sense of the word. Consequently Ted having established himself as her champion, it was only natural that he should fall in love with her, or think he was in love. The blow on the head he got as he catapulted through the taxi window and landed in a heap on the sidewalk had somehow unsettled his conviction on the matter. At any rate it had made him see that he could never bring happiness to Doris. No matter what Alec had done or might do, she would continue to love him and theirs would be a sorry partnership. Neither one could be happy under the circumstances.

Billy had refrained from telling him that the nurse had been evasive and uncertain over the condition of Doris so he concluded that like himself, she had not been seriously hurt.

"It's up to me," he said aloud with conviction, "to bring those two together."

"It's remarkable," said Billy, returning in time to overhear this. "It's really quite remarkable how much wisdom a blow on the head produces in some people!"

Ted writhed under her well deserved sarcasm but she was not disposed to let him off easily.

"This," she remarked apropos of nothing, "is a very small world."

"Just what do you mean by that trite statement?"

"Wait and see," she said provokingly. "Give me Alec's address. I'm going to telegraph him!"

The nurse attending Doris interrupted them.

"Mrs. Graham would like to see you," she said to Billy. "She seems worried about something," she added, leading the way back to her patient.

Doris made an effort to lift her head but fell back exhausted. Billy hurried to her alarmed. It was some time before Doris could speak.

"You — haven't — let — Alec know?"

Billy shook her head. Doris drew a quick, painful breath.

"Don't," she said, then lapsed into unconsciousness.

The Expert Allen Drake ... Madge and Lillian

If I had not seen his face I never would have recognized Allen Drake, [illegible] the most fastidious of men, [illegible] gent" if ever a man deserved the [illegible] the brilliant diplomatic agent found with dishevelled hair and clothes splashed with water and greasy with ointment, while from his face—already pallid, but now gray and drawn—his eyes shot an imperative message at [illegible]. He wasted no time in preliminaries, but spoke sharply.

"Which of you can best take Munson's gun and guard Smith for a few minutes?" he queried.

Lillian answered him quickly.

"I can," and I acquitted her of any self-conceit. She knew that she was better fitted by experience and training for such a duty, and characteristically she wasted no second of precious time in false modesty.

"Will He Live?"

"All right," Mr. Drake answered. "Is the bed ready for Chester?"

Lillian swept her arm toward the bed in answer, and Mr. Drake nodded assent.

"Stay here, Mrs. Graham, till we bring him up," he said. "You'd better know. He's unconscious. That's what we need the man guarding Smith for, to help carry him up."

"Are you using a stretcher?" Lillian turned from the door to make the inquiry.

"No. There isn't time. Besides, there aren't any broken bones or internal injuries, you know."

"Then let me suggest that Mrs. Graham help also," Lillian suggested practically. "It will take all three of you to carry him, and Mrs. Graham can support his head."

Mr. Drake looked searchingly at me for a second, then nodded as if satisfied.

"Good idea," he said. "Come along, Mrs. Graham. I'll make just one proviso. You can help after we've brought him out of the kitchen. That kitchen's no sight for anybody just now. I'm going down and clean up after we get young Chester fixed in bed."

So efficiently did he co-ordinate his action and conversation that we were on the stairs by the time he had finished speaking. Lillian put a low-voiced query:

"Will he live, Allen?"

I strained my ears for the answer.

"God knows," he answered soberly. "He fainted with the pain, poor devil—I nearly keeled over myself. I don't mind telling you, but he came out of that, then lapsed into unconsciousness again. The chief's afraid the poison's working, but of course, we can't tell yet."

Lillian's Plan.

"Of course Smith knows what the poison is and its antidote," Lillian said reflectively.

"What's on your mind?" Allen Drake turned to stare at her curiously.

"Nothing weighty," Lillian retorted flippantly. "But tell me"—she laid a detaining hand upon his arm as he started toward the kitchen—"is that stiletto still efficient from a Borgia point of view?"

"Absolutely," he returned. "There's enough dope on there to kill eight men. But look here, you're evolving a pet plan of mine. I had quite reckoned upon giving Mr. Smith a little persuasion with the primitive kitchen remedies we were obliged to use on poor young Chester."

There was a sinister determination in his tone which told me how relentless Allen Drake could be in avenging a wrong or punishing a crime. I was chilled at the knowledge, but Lillian only laughed lightly.

"Better leave it to me," she said. "It will be quicker, and not half so messy. Where is the stiletto?"

"On the mantel with a paper under it. Be mighty careful in handling it."

"I'm not anxious to be singed," she retorted. "I'll send Munson right out, and—don't send him back. I don't mind you folks but I'm not anxious for any curious witnesses in the next half-hour."

With a little wave of the hand she disappeared through the library door, and after a wait of a couple of minutes, Munson, the operative, appeared with an apology for his delay.

"Mrs. Underwood wanted to look over Smith's bonds," he said, "and then she had me take an extra half hitch on him. He's sure trussed up now for fair."

"He needs to be," Allen Drake returned grimly. "Come with me."

The two men went rapidly toward the kitchen while I braced myself for the ordeal of helping carry unconscious Tom Chester up the stairway.
